

Synchrony polled nearly 400 educators across the country and found that...

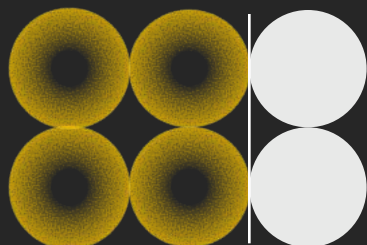

80%

of teachers cited financial education as “essential, extremely important, or very important” in their curriculum

<60%

of educators feel “very confident” about teaching financial education

2/3

of educators report struggling with student engagement, and a lack of relevant content to teach financial education effectively